Special needs support – applies only to the mobilities implemented within the Call 2020 from/to Western Balkan countries (Albania, Kosovo).
For the mobilities implemented within the Call 2020 from/to Western Balkan countries, participants with special needs, i.e. participants with physical, mental or health-related conditions are eligible to apply for an additional financial support in addition to a regular financial support (i.e. in addition to an individual support and a support for travel expenses) to offset the specific difficulties faced by the participant (such as adapted accommodation, travel assistance, medical attendance, supportive equipment, adaption of learning material, an accompanying person for students and staff with disabilities). This additional financial support for special needs is a contribution based on real costs. Participants with celiac disease or diabetes can also apply for this special needs support. The sending institution has to inform the International Relations Office of the Pavol Jozef Šafárik University in Košice about the selection of a participant with special needs without further delay after the selection of such participant. Such participant has to be a holder of a document proving that he/she is a participant with special needs (for example a severe health disability card or other equivalent document depending on the national legislation). For more information, please contact the International Relations Office of the Pavol Jozef Šafárik University in Košice.
