European Forum Alpbach - where thinkers meet

Every summer the Tyrolian village of Alpbach becomes the village of thinkers or, as Otto Molden, the founder of the Forum, called it, the "other magic mountain". When the village hosts the "European Forum Alpbach" more than 3,500 speakers and participants from all over the world, from science, economics and politics, experienced experts and students, come together to discuss current issues and to formulate interdisciplinary solutions.

Alpbach Summer School on European Integration

As part of the European Forum Alpbach, the Summer School dedicated to European Integration is organised for students in the higher levels of their university studies and for young graduates. The Summer School, the only one of its kind in Austria, is run in parallel English and German language classes. It is designed to give students a basic understanding of the workings of the EC-EU, to equip them with the skills required to analyse socio-economic and legal issues of European integration and, more generally, to introduce them to a culture and practice of animated debate of contemporary problems facing European integration. This year the programme runs from August 19 until September 3, 2010.
