

Dear Sir/Madam,

Fahrenheit Universities has already started the recruitment process for the next edition of Fahrenheit Scholarship programme – the best three International PhD students would be invited for 12-months research stay at one of the Fahrenheit Universities, i.e. Gdansk University of Technology (<https://pg.edu.pl/en>), University of Gdańsk (<https://en.ug.edu.pl/>) and Medical University of Gdańsk (<https://mug.edu.pl/>).

Our universities are located near the Baltic Sea in Gdańsk, which is perspective, forward-looking, economically developed city with a coastal climate.

The participants of Fahrenheit Scholarships in a one-year internship will receive a scholarship paid monthly (6500 PLN per months), free accommodation (provided by City of Gdańsk) and the reimbursement of travel costs.

We encourage young scientists who are preparing a doctoral dissertation at your university, are the authors or joint authors of a scientific publication and wish to pursue their scientific interests at one of Polish leading universities - to take advantage of the offer. This is a unique opportunity not only to conduct interdisciplinary research as part of a PhD dissertation, but also to gain international experience and make new valuable contacts.

The scholarship programme will be best described by the current interns: Anna, a PhD student from the University of Crete, Maria from the University of Pernambuco in Brazil, and Stabak, a PhD student from the Tripura University in India – watch the movie: <https://youtu.be/jb3JfqgRTbQ> in which you will also have a chance to see the campuses of our universities.

The deadline for submission of applications is September 15 this year. Details are available at our website page
